Protecting Your World[™]

Bed Bugs are relentless parasites that feed on the blood of humans and pets. Mostly active at night, these pests are experts at hiding between cracks and crevices in walls, beds and furniture. They are seen crawling out from along the folds of mattresses and upholstery during the day.

Bed Bugs are everywhere! Infestations can occur in frequently visited places such as cinema theatres, coffee shops, hotels and restaurants. They usually hitch a ride on people's clothing, bedding and luggage & can even travel via buses and trains. Although Bed Bugs are not known to be carriers of diseases, they can cause serious skin reactions in humans.
